ART EXHIBIT FOR SCHOOL! HERE MON. TO THURS

FAMOUS PAINTINGS TO BE SEEN IN CAMERON NOVEMBER
FIFTEENTH TO EIGHTEENTH

An exhibit of fine art prints will be held Monday to Thursday of next week in the building formerly occupied by the Avriett Grocery. The exhibit is being loaned to the school free of charge for the benefit of the School's Picture Fund and it is planned to obtain a number of pictures for the different rooms.

This exhibit embraces reproductions of recognized art treasures of the world and they possess a charm that appeals to all.

Nothing adds more to the improvement of a school room or a home than good pictures. Their influence is refining, uplifting and lasting.

One of the famous paintings to be shown here is "Hope" by George Frederick Watts, English artist. The original hangs in the Tate Gallery in London.

G. F. Watts was born in London in the year 1818, the son of a piano tuner. As a child he began his first essays in pictorial art by copying the plates from a prayer book, and by inventing imaginative illustrations to Homer and Sir Walter Scott. At fifteen he became a painter in oils. At seventeen he made his own portrait which is still with us. He spent much of his time in the studio of the sculptor William Behnes, but he will not admit to any other masters than the "Elgin Marbles" of Phidias the Greek: "I received no teaching, I visited no painter's studio"—these are his words.

Fortunate, indeed, is one if he has had the privilege of visiting the Tate Gallery in London, the home of nineteenth century British art. Several of its rooms stand out in memory, but none with greater force than the one lined with the works of George Frederick Watts.

Rose Marie, Great Musical Success, Is Coming to Temple

One can depend upon Arthur Hammerstein to provide splendid entertainment. He has done so again in producing "Rose Marie," the great musical success which will be the attraction at the Temple theatre Tuesday night, November 16.

"Rose Marie" is one of those shows that bids fair to join the perennial class once monopolized by "Pinafore," "Blossom Time" and others of that type. Some of its more enthusiastic critics have suggested that those who have not seen it ought not to be allowed to vote. It is rich in thrilling melodrama, splendid comedy, novel and beautiful dances, gorgeous costumes, picturesque settings, and music with such fetching swing and persuasion that one feels like writing sweet words about it.

The "Rose Marie" love song and the "Indian Love Call" are beautiful, and equally pleasing are "Totem Tom Tom," "Why Shouldn't We" and "The Door of My Dreams." Besides the solo numbers, there are several exceptionally worth-while choruses. The orchestration is colorful and full of delightful melodies.

The chorus is composed of pretty girls with pleasing voices reinforced by an unusually competent male section.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society began their observance of a Week of Prayer Monday afternoon under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Davis. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. H. N. Tate was leader. Wednesday afternoon the Junior League had charge of the program. The services will close with an Armistice service under the leadership of Mrs. W. O. Triggs Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

The ladies of circle two are planning to have a Doll Fair in the near future. A small fee of 10c will be charged for the entrance of the dolls and prizes will be offered. The following type of dolls will be entered: Baby, Negro, Old, Boy, Biggest, Prettiest, Flapper and Character. Announcement will be made later where and also the exact date on which this fair will be held.

Dear Mr. Clinton:

I heard you and the Milam County fiddlers over the radio from Waco last night and it made me homesick for old Cameron again. If you can handle a bank like you do a fiddle bow you ought to command a salary, with the Federal Reserve Bank, equal to Lynn P. Talley.

LOCAL POST PLANNING BUILDING FOR CAMERON

$1,000 IN HAND ON BUILDING FUND AND POST HOPES TO INCREASE FUNDS SOON

Outstanding among the plans by the local post of the American Legion is the fund established last year for the erection of a building in Cameron to be the permanent meeting place of the ex-soldiers.

The post has $1000 in its fund for the building and the post-hopes to increase its funds in the near future so as to make some definite progress along this line.

The fund was established with a gift of $500 by A. F. Mitchell, for several years, commander of the post. The post has posted a like amount. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have made it possible by their gift to start the program for a building. While the realization of it is hoped that within the next two or three years the work can be accomplished.

The Cotton Situation in the South

By R. L. Batte

A great deal has been said about the low price of cotton and the condition of the South but in my humble opinion the Southern farmer is greatly to blame for his own condition today. He and he only, has the solution of this question in his own hands.

Take the matter of the wrapping of cotton. It is nothing unusual for Texas to make four million bales of cotton and this year, she will probably make five million or more. This cotton is at present wrapped with jute, grown in India, usually 12 pounds of covering to the bale. Why not wrap this cotton with cotton bagging and use our low grades even if it does not weigh more than six pounds of covering to the bale? On four million bales of cotton this would aggregate twenty-four million pounds to be used. This is a low estimate weight as we actually use jute.

All of the old timers remember well that some 30 years ago during the existence of the "Farmers Alliance" as it was then called, before it took up politics and became the "Third Party", that for several years we used cotton bagging and it would have been continued had it not been for the ridicule, opposition, and criticism brought to bear on the Alliance by its political efforts to control offices of state, county etc.

Now, we will look at another use which may be made of cotton. Take the matter of rope, which is at present manufactured from hemp and sisal, millions of pounds of which are imported to this country besides what is grown in America in the New England States. Hemp and sisal are not produced in the South, and no great amount in the United States. Millions of pounds of cotton could be used in manufacturing rope.

The next thought which comes to me is the millions of pounds of burlap used for sacks. Why not demand sacks entirely of cotton? It would astonish anyone to undertake to estimate the millions and millions of pounds of cotton used for this article alone. I am proud to say that today I gave my first order for cotton bags to be used in both of my mills.

While they cost a small per cent more, still I feel sure that they will be a success.

Last, but not least I will come to the matter of wearing apparel. I know there are still living many people who remember our illustrious Governor James S. Hogg. He advocated and practiced the use of cotton goods for wearing apparel not only for himself, but his beautiful daughters, as well, and no doubt some of the readers of this article will remember attending picnics at the Wire Bridge and other places in Milam County where Governor Hogg made speeches and was accompanied by his daughters and son clothed in cotton goods from tip to toe. Several years ago, from one of Cameron's most prominent families, there was a fair and lovely bride. Her wedding was a "cotton wedding" and it was a scene of rare loveliness as the vows were said by the light of tall cathedral candles and amid the setting of beautiful flowers. "Cotton" was chosen for the beautiful robes of the bridal party.

Statistics show that Japan furnishes twenty-seven million pairs of silk hose to the United States women each year. And it is also said that the women of Japan wear cotton nose ship from the United States at a great deal less price than the silk hose would cost.

There is a joke told of an oil mill man in this portion of the state enclosed a note and number together a man putting up a sale of linters with the address with a request that whoever used that bale of linters would return the metal number and unfactory and where and for what purpose the information as to what man used this bale of linters was used. About a year later he received a reply from China that the bale of linters was used in that country in the manufacture of silk. I do not vouch for the above story, but still it may be true.

Now if the South would only insist on the use of cotton for making wrapping for cotton, for sacks, rope, clothes, etc., you, Mr. Farmer, would say to the gin man, "You can't gin my cotton unless you wrap it in cotton wrapping, and to the merchant, "I want cotton rope for my plow lines and I will not buy your goods bought in burlap bags," and then practice what you preach by having Sallie and the babies wear more cotton clothes and less silk, why, your negro cook wears silk from her hat to her hose. I say, that if you will commence and form clubs now and give notice to the bagging people, the cotton mills that you won't buy any article in which cotton may be used and is not. Give the ginners notice now, let him tell his bagging manufacturers so that he will not buy any thing except cotton bagging. And when you do all this you won't have to burn cotton as suggested by Mr. Terrell of the State Bureau of Markets in order to advance the price.

I do not feel that I have said half I'd like to and yet my letter is lengthy. But let's all pull together, help to make things easier for us all.

Trusting we may all co-operate at this crisis, Yours,
R. L. Batte.

The Herald extends congratulations.

Cakes, baked by London bakers with special messages in the icing, are frequently used to patch up lovers' quarrels. Tons of these cakes are sent each year to South Africa, Australia, Singapore and other parts of the world.

Old Paulina Dotson stood beside the spring welling out from between two boulders in her yard at the foot of Big Laurel mountain, and sighed apologetically:

"David's a-goin'—a-goin, soon."

"Where's Davy goin'?"

"I didn't know you was around, Abigail Seal!" Paulina frowned a bit resentfully. "You always did have the softest steppin' pair of feet—for all the world like a cat's!"

"Or a thief's!" muttered the hard-visaged old man sitting near the spring, mending a bridle.

The blooming young girl, looking over the low stone fence, reddened at this covert thrust.

"Davy's goin' to take his $200 railroad tie money and go to the preacher college after Thanksgiving. I thought he was goin' to marry on it, but he says he ain't," went on Paulina.

"Oh, Paulina, I wasn't meant for David!" Abigail raised propitiating eyes to the old woman's censuring ones, then they deepened and darkened solemnly. "Folks has got a heap to think about besides marryin' these 'stirrin' times, Paulina."

"David knows that," his grandmother drawled defensively; "a-bein' lame is all that's keepin' him from weddin', but it won't hinder his 'grecchin'."

"Two hundred dollars is a lot of money—I wish I had the half," observed Abby wistfully. "Where does Davy keep it, Paulina?"

"He's got it in my little beaded sack a-bagin' in the loft. He's afraid of banks."

When the girl was gone the bridle-mender, Cleophas, rebuked Paulina.

"Laws," Paulina tossed her head—"Abby's honestest than you, Cleophas. You are a holdin' spite foolishly. Abby's got her woman's right to prefer Enoch Davy to our Davy!"

Abby, walking with light swiftness through the reddening woods, stopped when she came to a dead poplar that, destitute of limbs and punctured by woodpeckers and ants, hung over the path.

"I'm goin' to ax that poplar! A cheerful voice sounded behind her, and a sunburned young man lifted her aside out of the way of the leaning tree. "It shan't fall on my girl while I'm fightin'! Yes, I'm goin', Abby. Something in me says: 'Enoch don't stay here takin' it easy makin' excuses your mammy's got but you.'"

she raised glowing eyes. "Oh, Enoch, I couldn't stand it if you didn't want to go! But I—oh, Enoch, you might not come back."

Enoch kissed her paling cheek.

"There's worse things could happen us, honey."

"I know," she whispered; "sin brings folks the worst griefs."

"I'm not goin' to enlist until Thanksgiving day, three weeks yet," the boy said presently; "I've got to get the corn in and leave things in shape for winter first for mammy."

The next morning when Enoch met Abby in the woodland path and bent joyously over her she seemed scarcely to sense that he was kissing her.

"My silver breastpin you gave me is gone," she told him nervously. "I could not find it anywhere this mornin'. I'm afraid losin' it'll bring us bad luck."

"Let's walk as far as Cleophas Dotson's and look for it," Enoch suggested.

Paulina ran out to meet them, her eyes wide with excitement. "David's money's gone. Stolen!"

Enoch felt Abby's fingers sink into the flesh of his arm. Then David came out, corroborating his mother's story.

"And nobody knew I kept the money in the loft!" he observed mournfully.

"Only Abby," old Cleophas muttered. "Paulina told her but jest yesterday."

"Here's the ladder settin' outside the window just like it's been all summer," David went on.

"Yes, and them that climbed that ladder and stole that hard-earned money ought to be made to suffer, be it man or woman!" Cleophas remarked, and Enoch felt that he knew what was in his suspicious old brain.

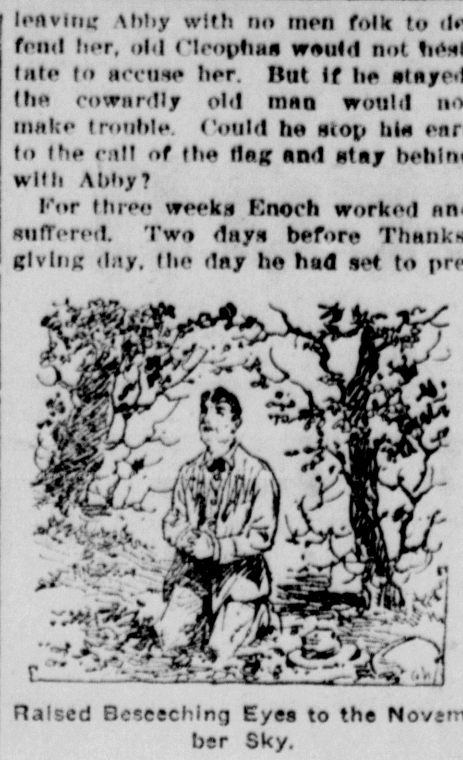

"David's A-Goin'—A-Goin' Soon!"

Then, in the grass at the foot of the ladder, his troubled eyes fell on Abby's brooch. When his heart began to beat again, he set a cautious foot over the pin, and, unobserved, stooped and transferred the trinket to his pocket.

"I wish I could know where my pin is!" she murmured on their way home. Enoch's hand, pressing his breast pocket, felt the uncomfortable roughness of the brooch within, but he grew cold at thought of restoring it to her. Had Abby been tempted to take David's money? He recalled that she had been unaccountably disturbed and troubled over the trivial loss of the brooch, and she had not wanted to go in the direction of Paulina's to look for it.

Enoch knew that once he were gone, leaving Abby with no men folk to defend her, old Cleophas would not hesitate to accuse her. But if he stayed, the cowardly old man would not make trouble. Could he stop his ears to the call of the flag and stay behind with Abby?

For three weeks Enoch worked and suffered. Two days before Thanksgiving day, the day he had set to present himself for enlistment, he met Bate Owens, a neighbor lad.

"Cleophas says he believes he knows who got Davy's $200," he remarked, "and wind and weather permittin', he's goin' uptown Saturday and notify the sheriff. Who do you reckon the old cuss has fastened it on, Enoch?"

Enoch shook his head, but when Bate left him he sank on the fallen leaves and raised beseeching eyes to the November sky.

"Hear me, Lord!" he cried. "If she—if my girl never done that wrong, send me a sign and forgive me for thinkin' she might have! And if she did sin, show me what to do between now and Thursday!"

A woodpecker, tapping on the dead poplar, scolded fiercely as a crow alighted on the top. Enoch rose wearily and went to the Seal place.

"Bring me the ax, honey," he requested Abby. "I'm goin' to cut the old poplar. I was about to forget it, and I'm goin' day after tomorrow—at least I ought to. Stand out of the way now."

Presently Enoch, examining the fallen tree's top, gave a joyous cry. On the ground lay some red string, a door key, a safety pin and Paulina Dotson's little red and yellow beaded pouch.

Enoch opened the bag and took out David's four fifty dollar bills. "I saw a crow up there—a tame one, I reckon. He must have had a habit of goin' in houses around here, and he fancied the beads on Paulina's pocketbook."

Abby smiled in his radiant face.

"Your worried look's gone, Enoch!"

He threw his arms about her and held her so close she could scarcely breathe.

"Oh, Abby!" he cried, "that little worry pressed me hard, but it's gone now forever!"

When he was alone again in the wood, he fell on his knees by the felled dead tree.

"O God!" he cried out, "day after tomorrow is the world's Thanksgiving day—but today is mine, today is mine, blessed God!"

WALSTON-FRANKLIN

A romance which was begun in high school culminated in the marriage of Miss Maude Walston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Walston to Mr. Claude Franklin of Goose Creek on Sunday, November 7, 1926 at 9 o'clock a. m. at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. E. S. Hutcherson, pastor performing the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride is a very popular young lady and has a wide circle of friends in Cameron where she attended school and graduated in 1916. She has taken a leading part in church affairs, and her pleasing personality has won for her a host of friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Franklin of Rockdale, and is well known in Cameron and Milam County where he graduated from high school.

Those who witnessed the wedding were the brother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Franklin, and little son, Clayton Franklin, of Rockdale, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Walston.

DAY OF HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE FOR BLESSINGS

Spirit of Humble Thankfulness Should Mark All Thoughts at This Season.

The fixing of a day, especially by the civil authority, for the giving of thanks seems to raise the question as to whether one can be thankful to order. Yet if it were not for times and seasons it does not seem probable that man would have given any attention whatever to the spiritual side of his nature. Worship is a duty at all times, and yet we have our Sunday as a special day of worship, and it has been found to be of great value, if not indispensable. It is so with the Christian year, with its round of feasts and fasts. Than this there is no more effective guardian of the faith, no more potent spiritual influence. So we have our Thanksgiving day, which perhaps it would be well to consider as a feast of the Christian year, along with Christmas and Easter. It certainly is worth little to those who disregard or fail to appreciate its deeply religious significance. Men are not supposed to say: "Go to, let us be thankful on the fourth Thursday in November," but rather: "Let us show in a special way and by a common worship on that day the thankfulness that we always feel." Thus it is that the day should be kept, not only in a spirit of thankfulness, but with a humble sense of dependence on God, such a dependence as shall destroy, for the time at any rate, that arrogant spirit of self-sufficiency which is so offensive to God and man, and so destructive of character.

Humble Thankfulness.

Perhaps the note of humility in the observance of the day should be more marked than even that of gratitude. It is to a humble thankfulness that the nation is called. How can thankfulness to the Almighty be other than humble? If it is not that it is likely to be patronizing—as in truth it often has been. It was against this self-sufficiency that the author of the book of Deuteronomy warned his people in the most impressive way, reminding them that they were absolutely dependent on God, and trying to make them realize that everything they had, and that all the blessings they enjoyed, had come from Him.

Danger of Forgetting God.

Thankfulness is a necessary and vital part of worship, and it is through worship, however we may define the word, that it finds expression. It was when men had "eaten and were full" that they were in danger of forgetting God, in danger of falling prey to the great vice of self-sufficiency. Thus it seems that what people, in their materialism, count the greatest blessings, may be the worst evils with which a human soul may be afflicted. This idea was expressed by Bacon in his well-known declaration that prosperity is the blessing of the Old Testament and adversity of the New Testament. One may go further and say that prosperity may or may not be a blessing—it all depends on its effect on character. Whether a man is rich or poor does not matter if his state of mind and attitude of soul are such as should mark the life of a child of God.

Most Precious Possessions.

Sir Henry Wotton was wise when he prayed God "more of His grace than gifts to send," for the favor of God, and the divine power in which men may share, are possessions which the good and great have ever coveted and often enjoyed. No one can be injured by the granting of a prayer for them. Goodness, unselfishness, integrity, moral and spiritual courage, cleanness of heart and life, purity of soul, the capacity of self-sacrifice, true humility—for these graces and virtues, and such as they, one who possesses them, or any of them, in even slight degree, cannot be too thankful. Indeed, the very possession of them, or, if not that, the craving for them, will make one thankful. Such a man will never plead his own merits as deserving of a reward, for he will be slow to recognize those merits, and will be very likely to undervalue them. Certainly he will revolt from such a commercial view of his relationship with God. It is a contemptible idea, that of so much thankfulness for so much good. The next step would be to thank God for what we are, an attitude condemned 20 centuries ago in immortal words. The man rejected had many "gifts," but his heart was untendered by divine grace, and his soul was sufficient unto itself.

True Thankfulness.

There is therefore reason to think that there is a real danger even in thankfulness if it is unaccompanied by humbleness of spirit, and a sense of personal unworthiness. We do not thank God as we politely thank a friend for a courtesy or slight favor, which we may, perhaps rightly, feel was fairly due us. Thankfulness to the Almighty means a pouring out of the heart and soul in reverent gratitude for "inestimable benefits" to which we may not feel ourselves in any sense entitled, and which we are surely conscious of not having merited or earned. Something of this Thanksgiving day ought to mean to our people, who have in their national life so much of which to be deeply ashamed.—Indianapolis News.

CHEVROLET COMPANY TO SPEND $1,500,000 FOR PARTS DISTRIBUTION

The Chevrolet Motor Company is spending $1,500,000 on the installation of a radically new system of replacement parts distribution which executives declare will assure uniformly prompt service for every Chevrolet owner in the United States.

The plan, involving the establishment of six new major supply depots throughout the country, has been worked out by president W. S. Knudsen and J. P. Little, manager of the parts and service division. In a service way it supplements the greater production capacity which will be available after completion of the $10,000,000 Chevrolet factory expansion program.

The new supply depots, in which will be stored reserve parts stocks, are to be located at the following points: Oakland California; Janesville, Wis.; Cincinnati, O.; Buffalo, N. Y.; St. Louis, Mo.; and Tarrytown, N. Y. All of the depots except those at Oakland and Tarrytown will be new, specially designed buildings of brick and reinforced steel concrete. The existing parts stations at Oakland and Tarrytown will be enlarged and refitted to meet the heavy demands that will be made upon them under the new system. The entire facilities of central parts warehouse at Flint, which heretofore has been the central shipping point, will be retained. The ground has already been broken for the four new buildings, and all of the major supply depots will be ready for operation by January 31.

The new depots will serve as safety valves, smoothing out the peaks and valleys of demands made by the parts department on production plants and service stations. They will perform a two-fold function: first, expedite the delivery of parts; second, create a reservoir that will permit of uniform production of parts, regardless of seasonal variations in demand.

Under the new plan the major supply depots will, in effect, create huge concentrations of parts stocks connecting the Chevrolet factories and the entire service organization. They will assure car owners far better and more efficient service through the constant maintenance of adequate stocks throughout the country. Parts will be shipped in straight carload lots from the factories to the supply depots.

The establishment of the major supply zones, outlined above, does not constitute the entire parts distribution program of the Chevrolet Motor Company. In addition to the concentration points previously mentioned, the company already has in operation eleven other parts warehouses which will continue in operation and be added to as necessity arises. The eleven other parts warehouses are located at Boston, Pittsburg, Charlotte, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Minneapolis, Denver and Portland. These warehouses will receive their entire shipments of parts in carload lots from the nearest major supply depot guaranteeing faster service to the dealer and owner.

The new buildings are of uniform, equipped with the most modern types of power conveyors, gravity ramps and stock bins.

BIG FREE DINNER FOR EX-SOLDIERS
AT NOON IN MONROE

Eight years after the world's great catastrophe, America pays homage to the 70,000 men who fell upon the field of Honor. Today this great nation, dedicated to the principles of Liberty, celebrates this momentous event of the greatest victory at arms in history.

Eight years have passed today and wounds of the bitterest struggle of all mankind are gradually healing since that eventful day of 1918. The nations of the Earth have taken a decided step toward Universal Peace by naval disarmament. Let us rejoice and give blessing.

BIG FREE DINNER FOR EX-SOLDIERS

Not only do the people here recognize the patriotism of the men in war but they honor the soldiers for their conduct in peace time. They are good citizens, everyone of them and while they gave much—some all—in the late war for their country, it is encouraging to see their efforts in peace, for they fully recognize more than any other class of our people just how sacrificial war can be.

The Legion Post at Cameron has been instrumental in promoting many good entertainments for Cameron and we recognize the value of the post and its civic program. The post has under way plans to finance a permanent home for the soldiers here and we encourage this effort and commend the example being set by the men of the post.

We trust that it will never again be necessary for Americans to cross the ocean to fight in foreign lands. We trust that the old conceptions of rulers and kings have passed away for ever and that the new order of things will prevent a recurrence of such a war. Fortunate indeed were we as a nation to have been able to fortify our ideals with such men as these and to enforce upon the world the truest conception of democracy in all the history of time.

GET THOSE TIGERS YOEMEN BATTLE CRY

BEST GAME OF SEASON EXPECTED IN ARMISTICE DAY GRIDIRON CLASH

"On to Rockdale" and "Get those Tigers" have been the by words of the students of Yoe High the past few weeks. The students will easily forget the season's defeats if they can only beat those Tigers. Cameron or Rockdale may lose every game they play up to the Armistice Day battle but the team that wins this game considers the season a successful one while the other team may have won all the other games played they call their season miserably finished. The two teams enter this years contest with a record as bad as a bank robber. Either team has not won but one game. Cameron defeated Rosebud while Rockdale sent the Bartlett team the two teams with a weak club but down for the count. This year finds every one that travels to Rockdale will see sixty minutes of the best high school football ever seen in this section. The game will start at the Fair Park field in Rockdale at three o'clock sharp.

The Yoemen are ready. They are anxious for the whistle to blow. This game will find them in better condition than any game so far this year. The past week brought some changes that will probably strengthen the team. Farris, who has been playing a half back position this year was switched back to his old position at guard. This strengthens the line considerably. Thompson, an end who has shown well in the backfield while Adams was on the injured list has been switched back to his natural position at left end. These two changes with Adams back in the line up increases the Yoemen strength both offensively and defensively. Adams will probably start at half. He has been out ever since the Granger game with a broken nose. Captain Mohler is sure to start at his position for the first time since the Bryan game when he suffered a dislocated shoulder. With Adams, Smith and Slocumb in the backfield and with the line charging as it should the Yoemen should win by two touchdowns but the game promises to be a hard fought one and will not be decided until the final whistle is blown.

The Rockdale Tigers are pinning their hopes for victory on Big Newt Daniels, Blackburn, Scott and Little Richard, their 115 pound half back who is fast as a flash.

The Tigers showed some real football during the first half of their game last week with Taylor which was scouted by the entire Yoemen team. They weakened in the third quarter after they had a lead of six points due to a fumble by a Taylor back and let Taylor walk over them for three touchdowns.

Coach Perkins said that he was ready and expected his team to win by a touchdown if they came through as they are capable of.

In a long distance call to Coach Montgomery he said that he didn't wish to predict the score but he promised that his team would be in there from the start to the finish.

Cameron is going to close for Armistice Day and plans are being made for a thousand people to go from here for the game. They are behind the Yoemen win or lose and will be just as good sports if they lose or if they win. On to Rockdale and bring that Tiger meat back. Yoemen, we are with you.

The starting line-up will probably be as follows:

Cameron Line-up
Earl Thompson	Left End
Leo Mohler	Left Tackle
Esther Farris	Left Guard
Frank Cheeves	Center
Murns Graham	Right Guard
Sam Hazlewood	Right Tackle
Hicks Baskin	Right End
Hooks Slocumb	Quarter
Monroe Smith	Left Half
Arthur Adams	Right Half
Alvin Mondrik	Fullback

Rockdale Line-up
W. Rinn	Left End
F. Allen	Left Tackle
Franklin	Left Guard
Scott	Center
Brown	Right Guard
Crump	Right Tackle
Green	Right End
Blackburn	Quarter
Richards	Right Half
Lightfoot	Left Half

When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures, and disturbed by no creditor and enslaved by no debt, shall sit among his teeming gardens and orchards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus and selling it in his own time and his own chosen market and not at a master's bidding—getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt but does not restore his freedom—then shall be breaking the fullness of our day.—Henry W. A Song for Christmas

By James Whitcomb Riley

CHANT me a rime of Christmas—
Sing me a jovial song—
And though it is filled with
laughter,
Let it be pure and strong.

Sing of the hearts brimmed over
With the story of the day—
Of the echo of childish voices
That will not die away.

Of the blare of the tasseled bugle,
And the timeless clatter and beat
Of the drum that throbs to muster
Squadrons of scampering feet.

But, O, let your voice fall fainter,
Till, blent with a minor tone,
You temper your song with the beauty
Of the pity Christ hath shown.

And sing one verse for the voiceless;
And yet, ere the song be done,
A voice for the ears that hear not,
And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing
A merry Christmas glee,
Let a low, sweet voice of pathos
Run through the melody.

Christmas, Mistletoe

—the Kissing Custom

Since the Christian era, mistletoe was dedicated to Christmas time. With it went the custom of kissing under the white-berried plant, probably a survival of the saturnalia of pagan rites.

But the Christian elders decided that when the churches were decorated with mistletoe, there was too much kissing going on during the services and too many requests for the wedding service.

So they abolished mistletoe and hung up in its stead holly, to signify the dark monotony and many thorns of matrimony. But the mistletoe stayed in the homes at Christmas, and so did the kissing custom.

It is bad luck for a maiden to stand under the mistletoe and not be kissed. It means that she will not be married that year.

A Song for Christmas

By James Whitcomb Riley

WANT me a ring of Christmas— Sing me a jovial song— And though it is filled with laughter, Let it be pure and strong.

Sing of the hearts brimmed over With the story of the day— Of the echo of childish voices That will not die away.

Of the blare of the tasseled bugle, And the timeless clatter and beat Of the drum that throbs to muster Squadrons of scampering feet.

But, O, let your voice fall fainter, Till, blent with a minor tone, You temper your song with the beauty Of the pity Christ hath shown,

And sing one verse for the voiceless; And yet, ere the song be done, A voice for the ears that hear not, And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing A merry Christmas glee, Let a low, sweet voice of pathos Run through the melody.

Christmas, Mistletoe—the Kissing Custom

Since the Christian era, mistletoe was dedicated to Christmas time. With it went the custom of kissing under the white-berried plant, probably a survival of the saturnalia of pagan rites.

But the Christian elders decided that when the churches were decorated with mistletoe, there was too much kissing going on during the services and too many requests for the wedding service.

So they abolished mistletoe and hung up in its stead holly, to signify the dark monotony and many thorns of matrimony. But the mistletoe stayed in the homes at Christmas, and so did the kissing custom.

It is bad luck for a maiden to stand under the mistletoe and not be kissed. It means that she will not be married that year.

Mrs. Ada Blackmar, of Alexander City, Ala., writes: "From time to time, I would have spells of nausea . . . which would put me to bed. ARMISTICE FOOTBALL RESTORES RELATIONS

ROCKDALE REPORTER MAKES COMPARISON OF THE TWO TEAMS

(Rockdale Reporter)

After a cessation of athletic relationship for three years, the Rockdale and Cameron High School football teams are to resume that relationship on Thursday of next week.

November 11, the game to be played at Fair Park in Rockdale as a feature of the Armistice Day county-wide American Legion celebration. The game will be called promptly at 3:00 p. m.

Three years ago an unfortunate altercation between too-ardent football fans of the two towns occurred, resulting in calling off the annual Armistice Day game between the two schools. It is only fair to say here that the altercation was not between the two teams. The football boys themselves had nothing to do with it, but outsiders were responsible.

While the rivalry between the two teams has always been keen, there was never any bad feeling between the players themselves, and now that the old trouble has been forgotten, the teams have again resumed their former custom of playing a match game on the big Armistice Day holiday. As above stated, the game this year will be played on the Rockdale field.

Neither of the teams are very strong this year; in fact, both schools are represented by the weakest teams they have ever put in the field, both being composed principally of boys who are playing their first year in football. The two teams are quite evenly matched, and it will be anybody's game from start to finish. Needless to say, each will exert its utmost endeavor to win the game. The ancient rivalry still exists, and both teams had rather win this game than any other game in their season's schedule.

Teams Evenly Matched

Each team has played six games so far this season, and each has won only one game. From that standpoint they seem to be evenly matched. An analysis of the season's dope, however, shows that in the six games Cameron has made 45 points as against a total of 153 points by their several opponents. On the other hand, Rockdale has scored 32 points in the six games played, as against only 84 points rolled up by their various opponents. This would indicate Rockdale as being a stronger defensive team than Cameron. However, football dope is tricky, and it will take the Armistice game to determine which is the better team.

Big Dan Will Star

Each team has one outstanding player, both of whom will no doubt be marked men during the contest. Newt Daniels, better known as "Big Dan," is captain of the Tigers this year. He is one of the best football players who has ever worn the blue and gold for Rockdale—when he is right and in the humor to play. He promises to be in just that condition next Thursday, and it will take at least four of Coach Perkin's men to stop him for less than five yards. He is also the best punter in the county, and is expected to gain from 5 to 20 yards on every exchange of punts.

Cameron's Best Bet

Slocumb, Cameron quarterback, is the best bet for the Yoemen. He is a ten-second dash man and one of the best side-steppers in Central Texas. In the Cameron-Bryan game it usually took three men to stop him. He will do to watch in the coming contest. While he is the smallest man on the Cameron team, he is their most dangerous threat. In the Cameron-Rosebud game (the only game in which Cameron has scored this season) Slocumb ran through the entire Rosebud team for a touchdown, shaking off not less than five tacklers. If the Tigers can hold Slocumb they will doubtless win the game next Thursday.

Famous 1921 Game

Bailey Hughes, famous Rockdale Tiger coach, who dominated athletics in Milam county for the three years he was with the Rockdale High School, carried the Tigers to the pinnacle of fame when his team beat the Yoemen 16 to 0 in 1921. The Tigers that year had Fred Bethea for quarterback, and Fred Green was captain and played center. Early in the game Green was called back and booted a perfect field goal from a difficult angle, setting the score at 3 to 0. This score served to rattle the Yoemen, and a few minutes later Lindemood, Tiger halfback, got loose for a 50-yard broken-field run for a touchdown. In the final quarter, Bethea passed to Montague, Rockdale's rabbit end, who ran 30 yards for a touchdown, barely eluding the flying tackle of the Yoemen's best backfield man, Porter Stevens. Members of the Tiger team that year included Fred Bethea, Fred Green, Chas. Young, Clark Simmons, Sam Raymond, Wesley Blackburn, Homer Montague, Conner Thomas, Ewell Gunn, Homer Dymke, Cecil Jumper, Chas. Robertson and Lindemood.

In 1922 the game was played in Rockdale on a muddy field, neither team scoring until the final quarter when a Cameron substitute intercepted a pass and waded over the goal line. The score that year was 6 to 0. Cameron. In 1923 the Yoemen slaughtered the Tigers by the topheavy score of 73 to 0. Coach Hughes' team was handicapped that year by injuries, his best bets—Blackburn, Rosenberg and Scarbrough—witnessing most of the game from the side lines. Hughes was forced to use several linemen in the backfield in that contest.

Rockdale's New Coach

This year Rockdale has a new coach in the person of T. V. Montgomery of Wichita Falls—a new man in this section of the state. "Monty" as his boys affectionately call him, was a success at Wichita, and his entire team is in love with him and will play their heads off for him. He has a bag of new tricks he expects to pull for the Armistice Day game, and these may cost the Yoemen the game. Practically every student in the Rockdale Schools will see this game, and the pep squad is now engaged in perfecting some stunts for the benefit of the crowd and the encouragement of the Tigers. Cameron schools are also coming over en masse, and will bring their school band along. Cameron always has a good pep squad, and this year that squad is expected to show some real class between halves.

The attendance from over the county is expected to run into the thousands, and arrangements are being made to handle the largest crowd that ever saw a football game in Milam County. It is said that old men and women who never saw a football game before will be on hand next Thursday to cheer their favorites.

This Season's Dope

Rockdale 6, Bartlett 0; Rockdale 6, Thorndale 13; Rockdale 0, Belton 20; Rockdale 0, Hearne 13; Rockdale 18, Brenham 32; Rockdale 0, Georgetown 6. Total Rockdale points 32, opponents 84.

Cameron 0, Temple 56; Cameron 0, Waco 77. Cameron 0, Granger 6; Cameron 45, Rosebud 0; Cameron 0, Bryan 7; Cameron 0, Caldwell 7. Total Cameron points 45, opponents 153. Cameron has scored in only one game, Rockdale has scored in three games.

The day is a holiday all over the county, and everybody is coming to the game.—Rockdale Reporter.

JAMIE CLARK HOME AT SAN GABRIEL DESTROYED BY FIRE TUESDAY NIGHT

Word was received over the telephone Wednesday morning that fire destroyed Jamie Clark's house during the early hours of the morning, and the origin of the fire was unknown. Jamie and some boys occupied a small house in close proximity to the home of his mother and some effort was necessary to prevent his mother's home from catching fire, so the report stated.—Thorndale Champion.

UNFATHOMABLE

WHO can measure the spirit of Christmas—who define it? Born twenty centuries ago beneath the stars, it is neither jollity, contentment, nor conviviality. It is, in part, the sensing of universal brotherhood—the stimulating of good-will to men the world over.

The spirit of Christmas came on the beams of Bethlehem's star, with the accompaniment of the angels' song. While man lives that spirit cannot die.

It should inspire heartier co-operation with every effort of our fellows to achieve; it should be the spark awakening within us that which no creed can define; enabling us to hear the sweet voice of the Babe in the Manger, the firm voice of humble men, and the heartening voice of the Man who, upon the Mount, gave to life its beatitudes. . . . Let us catch the spirit of Christmas.—W. D. Pen-nypacker.

Remember the Animals

When Christmas Comes

AND let us, especially at Christmas, remember that animals are worthy of numbering among our friends and companions, since they were the companions of the Christ child in the lowly stable at Bethlehem. Because they are our friends, we must do all we can to make them happy. This we can do at all times, and at such a special season of gladness let us share with them our joy and happiness. You know how a dog, for instance, can show his happiness and can express his gratitude for kindly attention, and also how, alas, too often, he shows his fear of bad treatment! They can also feel pleasure, and it is only right—just as we hate giving pain to our human friends—that we should avoid anything which may hurt our animal companions.

Let every living thing, if possible, share in the joys of Christmas! Do something to make it a happy time, at least, for every living thing with which you can have anything to do. And by so doing we can all try to make it a season of real loving-kindness to one and all. Let us be determined that every living being with whom we have anything to do—our human friends and our "lower brethren"—shall be, somehow, the happier because of what we—you and I—have been able to do for them. You remember that Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto Me." (Matt. 25:40.)—Our Dumb Animals.

Soup and Nuts Together

Keeping Christmas for a Day; Why Not Always?

ARE you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you, and to think what you owe the world; to put your rights in the background, and your duties in the middle distance, and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellow-men are just as real as you are, and try to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy; to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life; to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness—are you willing to do these things, even for a day?—Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and the desires of little children; to remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask yourself whether you love them enough to bear in mind the things that other people have to bear on their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke, and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you; to make a grave for your ugly thoughts, and a garden for your kindly feelings, with the gate open—are you willing to do these things even for a day?—Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death, and that the blessed life which began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago is the image and brightness of the Eternal Love?—Then you can keep Christmas. And if you keep it a day, why not always?—Frank Herbert Sweet.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

To the Noble Grand, Vice Grand and Brethren of Cameron Lodge No. 25, I. O. O. F., Cameron, Texas:-

We, your committee, to prepare resolutions upon the death of brother George S. Mangum, beg to submit the following:

Brother Mangum was born in Kentucky, but came to Cameron in 1878. He was married to Miss Lucy Grantham in 1883. October 23rd 1926, in obedience to his summons he laid down his work here, and was called to labor in that undissolving lodge above. Neither the smiling youth, robust manhood nor decrepid age can escape "the universal dominion of death."

Brother Mangum left surviving him his devoted wife and two sons and daughters.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:-

1. That the State has lost an honored and useful citizen, his wife and children a devoted husband and father, and this Lodge zealous and enthusiastic member.

2. Though our lodge be draped with the emblems of sorrow, because of the passing of our deceased brother, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of the only wise God, our Savior, "Who doeth all things well."

3. That we extend to his family, who are bowed with grief for their loved one, whom they have loved and lost for a little while, our heart felt sympathy, and commend them to the God of all grace and consolation.

4. That a page of the minutes be set apart for these resolutions, a copy be published in the local press, and one be sent to the bereaved family.

Fraternally submitted,

W. W. Chambers

STATEMENT ISSUED AT A. & M. BY CADETS

A. & M. STUDENTS DO NOT CARE WHAT ACTION IS TAKEN IN THE CONTROVERSY

College Station, Tex., Nov. 8.—Disposition of the question of continued athletics relations between Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College and Baylor University is "in the hands of authorities of the college," a statement from a committee of students of A. & M. issued today said. The announcement also indicated that "severance or continuance of athletic relations is a matter of complete indifference to us."

The committee was composed of ten members of the senior class as representatives of the student body and was made in connection with the students fight at the Baylor ball game at Waco on October 30, in which Cadet Lieutenant Charles M. Sessums of Dallas was injured fatally.

The statement reviews the feeling of regret at A. & M. over the death of Sessums, and speaks of the traditions of the school for love of justice, fair dealing, honesty, and an acute love for clean sportsmanship. Reviewing the relations with Baylor, it says:

"Two years ago the Baylor cheering section sponsored the tour of a bucking Ford, with the rear hub set eccentrically, with a saddled oil drum perched on the back end and which design was supposed to represent the Texas Aggies who were being ridden by the Baylor cowboy who sat in the saddle. This play was received in fun by the cadets until the Ford, due either to poor driving or malicious intent on the part of the driver came very near injuring members of the Aggie football team as it ran through their midst while they sat or reclined along the side lines. This infuriated the cadets beyond the comprehension of any person who does not know how dearly the A. & M. man loves his football team. The memory of this is odious to A. & M. men. The idea has become traditional and other schools know this to be the fact and have respected our feeling to the extent that it has never happened again until last Saturday (October 30). Even Saturday, as on previous occasions, we suffered to see one of our military drills fiercer, made ridiculous by Baylor's and our uniform, that of a reserve of cheer leaders without offering a rebuke.

"Then came the Ford loaded with girls and a man driver, all dressed in costume. The cadets as well as campus residents and other spectators all thought that the passengers were boys for no one dreamed that men students would permit their coeds to commit such a dangerous undertaking."

The statement then says that an A. & M. yell leader previously had asked if Baylor intended using the "bucking Ford" and was told "No". The use of the one sent onto the field was "just as obnoxious in the eyes of cadets," the statement said. Several cadets intent on switching off the ignition jumped onto the car and one girl fell off.

The statement denies that the cadets knowingly made an attack on girls. It charges that Baylor students were equipped before the game with clubs and sticks. Some 300 or 400 cadets remained in their seats during the melee at the request of their officers. When the band started "The Star Spangled Banner," the statement says, "immediately reflecting their loyalty to country and military discipline, the cadets snapped to rigid attention and saluted."

WORLD'S GREATEST SHOW

"Ben Hur" Produced at an Expense of More Than $4,000,000. Three Years in Making

"Ben Hur", with its magnificent chariot race in the death defying contest on a vast circus arena, the knightly Ramon Novarro and the wicked Frances X. Bushman as the opposing heroes, comes to the Temple Theatre, Temple, Texas, Thursday night, Friday matinee and night, November 18 and 19.

Theatregoers greatly enjoyed the stage "Ben Hur" and vividly remembered Bill Farnum, Bill Hart, Emmett Corrigan, Mary Shaw and others of the old casts. 'Twas the most popular stage spectacle ever produced, touring America for twenty-two seasons. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in arrangement A. L. Erlanger, Charles Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, have made a new and greater "Ben Hur" in the newer art of the motion picture that out-tops the former achievement even as the wizard like powers of the Twentieth Century surpass the inventions of our forefathers.

You see fifty-eight horses, twelve teams, start abreast in their mad dash over the seven laps of the Antioch race course, and you cannot forbear a cheer as Ben-Hur wrecks Messala and forges to the front. Roman and Pirate navies and turrets of Zion rise anew. From the exquisite Madonna to the Last Supper and the Procession of Palms, the masterpieces of Art are re-enacted, often in color. The beautiful love story of Esther and Ben-Hur, a contemporary of the Savior, dominates the grand spectacle which is characterized by a fine reverence in the sacred part of the portrayals. Among the leading actors are Ramon Novarro in the title role; Francis X. Bushman as Messala; May McAvoy as Esther; Betty Bronson as the Madonna, Caramel Meyer as Iras; Frank J. Carrier, Mitchell Lewis, Nigel de Bruin, Claire McDowell, Kateheleen Key, with no less than 150,000 persons in the "support."

A Symphony Orchestra of twenty will interpret the score. The Temple performers will be an exact replica of the Ambassador theatre, New York presentations.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 93

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right."

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer with... I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it."

"Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement. ... I am much better now."

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall."

"My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."

ALWAYS CHRISTMAS

By WILLIAM D. NESBIT
In Rural New Yorker

USED to think that Christmas was nothin' but a day
To get a lot of presents and to give a lot away;
Shouted "Merry Christmas" and helped to trim the tree;
Just a day of Christmas was all that I could see.
Since I found that Christmas is more than any day,
Christmas came to our house—an' never went away.

Struck of a sudden that Friendliness
and Cheer
Was meant to be on duty more than one day in the year;
If we're happy Christmas, why not the day before?
An' the day that follows, and so on,
evermore?
Got to thinkin' of it—an' that is why
I say
Christmas came to our house—an' never went away.

Lots of us go ploddin' along the road
of life,
An' think one day of gladness will make up for all the strife;
But the Christmas spirit can show you how you need To make each day a Christmas in thought an' word and deed.
Used to pack the kindness in camphor
balls next day, Till Christmas came to our house—an'
never went away.

We just keep on givin' to strangers
and to kin,
An' find that what is going out is always comin' in;
Makes the sunshine brighter where
we've got to live,
To learn that givin's keepin'; what you have you give.
Holly in December and violets in May—
And Christmas came to our house—an'
never went away.

Used to think that Christmas was nothin' but a date,
Till I learned that truly you would never have to wait;
But that it's the spirit that never stays
apart
If you let it find you and keep it in your heart.
Since I found that Christmas is more than just a day,
Christmas came to our house—an' never went away.

Christmas Games for Whole Family

Amusement That Will Help Fill in Time Following the Big Feast.

By MARTHA BANNING THOMAS

AFTER the excitement of opening
gifts has subsided;
after the first glory
of the Christmas
tree has passed,
after the turkey
and cranberry sauce have been attended to and thoroughly demolished,
there comes a pause at twilight time.
This pause (provided you are a nice, old-fashioned family) can be happily filled by playing a few simple games which are sure to send the members into shouts of laughter. The fun comes from the solemn way in which grandpa lifts his feet over pillows on the floor—when no pillows are there; how daddy puffs out his cheeks, and blows with all his might at the book-case when he thinks he is facing a candle; how Bill staggers across the room after turning around three times with his head on a cane, and tries to strike a match and light
the candle.

Nothing very elaborate, as you can see, but good, wholesome entertainment.

(1) Blindfold daddy, after first facing him towards a lighted candle some distance away. Ask him to turn three times, and then when he thinks he again faces the candle, to go ahead, blindfolded, and blow it out. He never can do it in the world!

(2) Grandpa enjoys sport as much as anyone. Why shouldn't he? If he has not heard of the pillow game, persuade him to try it. Place four pillows in a row on the floor with a foot or two of space between each pillow. Allow grandpa to get his bearings thoroughly, then blindfold him, turn him around and head him toward the pillows. Ask him to step over them. On no account whatever may he be allowed to "feel" for them with his feet! While he is being turned about, let one of the children quietly remove the pillows. To see the dear old gentleman stepping over imaginary pillows is very amusing,—and he'll be perfectly astounded when you take off the handkerchief from his eyes.

(3) Try this game on Bill. It requires steady nerve and great determination.

Set an unlighted candle with a match beside it on a table. Give Bill a cane at the other side of the room.
Tell him to hold it upright in both his hands and then to rest his head on it, standing of course. He is then to turn rapidly about three times, after which someone takes the cane and Bill reels across the room towards the candle which he attempts to light with the match. It sounds simple, but just try it and see! (Children should not play this game alone, lest they get something afire in their zeal to strike the match.)

(Ed. 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Should Not Be

There should not be, nor is there likely to be, any unpleasant reaction from the Christmas spirit.

The Recurrence of Armistice Day brings to us again the realization of the debt we owe to those who gave all for their country.

The American Nation remembers with gratitude the valor of these men on the fields of France in the late war and the nation remembers also their stalwart Americanism in time of peace as well.

All honor to them who will meet here on November 11th to revive the memories of sixteen, seventeen and eighteen.

This big, strong bank, congratulates these soldiers and applauds their victory in war and in peace.

"Abie's Irish Rose" Temple Theatre One Night, November 13

Patrons of the Temple Theatre are promised a laugh a minute in Anne Nichols's exhilarating appealing comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose" of which she is the author as well as producer, and which will be the attraction appearing at the Temple Theatre for one night only, Saturday, November 13th, the management having been fortunate in being able to secure the Detroit and Chicago Company and Production, the organization having recently completed the most extraordinary run of 28 weeks at the Garrick Theatre in Detroit which is unprecedented in the history of theatricals.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is today one of the most widely talked of plays on the stage. Its tremendous success is due entirely to its human appeal and clean wholesome fun, its characters being natural homelike coherent and interesting in witty prose.

Mail orders are now being filled in the orders received if accompanied by remittance. The regular seat sale will open Monday, November 8th at the Crescent Theatre, Temple, Texas.

Danny's Visit to the Big Toy Shop

"Drums!" Was His Christmas Slogan, and He Won the Argument.

By MARTHA BANNING THOMAS

"DANNY, cling tight to mother's hand. You might get lost. Stay close, dear—this is a frightful crowd."

Mrs. Crawford looked down on her small son and smiled. This was his first trip to see the Christmas toys and he was all flushed with bright enthusiasm. His blue eyes lifted to hers solemnly. This was a tremendous occasion for Danny. "Now," said Mrs. Crawford and she half-pushed the little lad through a revolving door. In a moment they were inside the store.

"O-o-o-h!" whispered Danny. The brilliant lights, the gay garlands swung from pillar to pillar, the music playing from the balcony dazzled him. "Where shall we go?" asked Mrs. Crawford. She knew well enough what he would say. He had been saying it for weeks, but she wanted to hear it again.

"Drums!" insisted Danny, "drums!" They took an elevator and Danny's small hand gripped his mother's with tight fearfulness. He had never before been in a room that "went up and down" as he later described it. At the toy department they stepped out and from that moment Danny walked in a kind of glittering dream.

"Do you like it, dear?" smiled Mrs. Crawford.

Danny could find no words. He nodded several times, and his blue eyes grew bluer, and wider and wider. When one is three years old the Christmastide holds an amazing wonder.

There was a Santa Claus. There were rocking horses, there were toys that wound up and went off by themselves. There was, in fact, everything to make a child's heart leap with delight.

But Danny would have none of it. "Drums," he demanded, "drums!"

They were just turning into another aisle when Mrs. Crawford saw a friend at the other side of the room. "Danny, there's Mrs. Morison. I must speak to her a moment."

Through the crowd she threaded her way, hurrying lest she miss the chance of seeing her neighbor. After a few minutes of pushing and squeezing Mrs. Crawford succeeded in reaching Mrs. Morison. There passed a cordial greeting between them and then Mrs. Morison said:

"You left Danny at home?"

"Oh, no! He was determined to come, so I brought him."

"Have you left him in charge of an attendant?"

"No, he's—" Mrs. Crawford looked down at her side. Danny was gone.

"Why, he must have . . . somebody's jostled him away from me . . . he was close beside me a moment ago . . .!" The frightened mother turned and hurried as fast as possible back to the aisle from which she had first spied Mrs. Morison. Perhaps Danny was still there pressed against the counter and waiting. How could she . . . how could she have forgotten for an instant his small, clinging hands?

But Danny was not pressed against the counter. People surged back and forth. Hundreds and hundreds of people. A cold, sick feeling of helplessness swept over her. She felt lost in this merry tide of Christmas shoppers.

"Anything the matter, ma'am?"

Mrs. Crawford met the kind, inquiring glance of a floorwalker.

"Oh, yes," she breathed, "my little boy—Danny. He's just three, and somehow he has been separated from me. . . . I can't understand . . ."

She was bewildered and frantic.

The floorwalker proved to be a man of action. In no time at all he found a policeman, a store detective and three clerks. They began a thorough and systematic search of the toy department. Danny was carefully described to them. His fair hair, blue eyes and sturdy body.

"He'll be so frightened . . . and confused!" mourned the distressed mother, "my little, little lad—"

News of the lost boy spread quickly. Other mothers joined the search. Clerks deliberately left their counters to help. But there was one man in particular who seemed to work the hardest. He was a big fellow with a shock of light hair. There was something comforting in the very set of his shoulders.

"Who is that man?" asked Mrs. Crawford of the floorwalker; "he reminds me somehow of Danny . . . as if Danny were grown up. He'll look that way, I'm sure, when he's a man."

"That is our new store detective," replied the floorwalker. "By George, I believe he's found the child!"

See, he's bending down and smiling!"

In a moment Mrs. Crawford was also bending down and smiling through her tears. In a corner, far from the aisle and back of a small mountain of drums was Danny, her own little lad. Tired from the unwonted exertion of shopping he had fallen fast asleep.

Both arms were hugged around a drum, and held tightly in each fist was a drumstick. He had found his heart's desire . . . and he was neither frightened nor lonely!

The store detective lifted him, drum and all, and gave him to his mother.

"Here is Danny, Bertha," he said gently.

"Daniel Henderson . . . where in the world . . .?"

"Just hit town a day or two ago sister! Landed this job and was going to surprise you at Christmas. But the minute I caught sight of your face I decided the surprise would have to come now. And I found the little rascal for you, bless him! He'll never give up that drum, so I'll make a Christmas present of it for my namesake. Do you think he looks like me?" The big detective looked about happily, and the floorwalker assured him he had never seen so close a resemblance in his life.

"Drums!" murmured Danny in his mother's arms, "drums . . ."

Keep Eliminative System Active

Good Health Requires Good Elimination

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

O, LITTLE CHILD OF BETHLEHEM

By Katherine Edelman

O, LITTLE child of Bethlehem!
Come to the earth today,
Come to a weary, care-filled world
This blessed Christmas Day.

Fill every heart with new-born hope,
Fill every home with cheer,
Bring peace to troubled, burdened souls,
Bring brotherhood more near.

Seek out the weary, worn ones,
The griefed, the hurt, the weak,
And in Thy tender pity bend
A loving word to speak.

Bless those who walked Thy loved ways,
And pity those who strayed,
Bring them within Thy mercy now,
And make them unafraid.

Blot out the hurts and hates and fears
That rent and severed men,
Let understanding's blessed light
Unite their hearts again.

Encircle all the earth with love,
Let holy peace abide,
That all may know in measure full
A happy Christmastide.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE" TEMPLE

THEATRE ATTRACTION Saturday Night

Anne Nichols' excellent company and production of her wonder play of the age, "Abie's Irish Rose," having added new laurels and fame to its celebrated author and producer by recently completing a 28 weeks engagement at the Garrick Theatre in Detroit, has been secured by the management of the Temple Theatre for one night only, Saturday, November 13th.

In sending the attraction to this city Miss Nichols has not changed one member of the cast, nor a single detail in production, it being her aim to give the patrons of the theatres in the smaller cities surrounding the key cities played, the same cast and production utilized during its runs, thereby giving one and all theatregoers the opportunity of seeing her fascinating and appealing comedy at its best.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is the seventeenth play Miss Nichols has written and is without doubt the most popular of all. This by no means infers that this was the only successful one, for her "Just Married" was one of the big New York and Chicago hits of two years ago, while for the past eight or nine years she has furnished the famous Irish Tenor, Fiske O'Hara with a new play every year from her pen.

It is no more conjecture to say that Abie will live for years in the minds of lovers of all that is clean and wholesome in the theatre, and the precedent it has established in theatrical history will no doubt place its author and producer in the hall of fame, for it is a matter of record that never since the advent of the marionette theatre and its stepping into the background for the arrival of the animated stage, has any play been equal to the task accomplished by this record-breaking perennial.

Mail orders are filed in the order of their receipt if accompanied by remittance. Seat sale Crescent Theatre, Temple, Texas.

Frances Green Of Hearne To Be Married To Wiltz McCown

The announcement of Miss Frances Green of Hearne to Mr. Wiltz McCown, formerly of Cameron, now of Edinburg, will be of interest to friends in Cameron and Milam County as well as throughout the state. The following interesting account of the announcement was taken from the Hearne Democrat.

That Hearne is to have at least one November bride was made known Saturday afternoon when Miss Louvenia Green, who entertained a group of friends from 4 to 6, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her niece, Miss Frances Green to Wiltz McCown, late of Cameron, now of Edinburg.

The interesting disclosure came during the progress of Halloween games when a wee cat, to whose collar was attached the enlightened message, jumped out of a bag, friskily disporting itself before the guests.

While rumor has been busy with the names of the prospective bride and groom for some time, the verification of that which was mere conjecture was a signal for the voicing of many good wishes which rightfully belong to the young couple.

The bride-to-be, who is a daughter of J. W. Green, is a native of Hearne and is universally beloved.

Having finished the prescribed courses of the Hearne Public School during the spring of 1925, she spent the summer of that year, and also the 1925-26 session at Baylor College where in addition to her academic course, she was a voice student under the training of Herrold DeGrosse. Her voice of unusual sweetness has given much pleasure to her friends.

Mr. McCown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. McCown, of Cameron, and was for a year connected with the Planters and Merchants State Bank here. A graduate of Cameron High school, and later student at Georgia Tech, Mr. McCown developed a special aptitude for business, as two promotions within the year indicate.

After their marriage, for which November 19, has been named as date, Mr. and Mrs. McCown will be at home in Edinburg where Mr. McCown is with the State Bank and Trust Company.

Miss Louvenia Green chose to develop a Halloween motif throughout the reception suite, when complimenting her niece, cleverly weaving into the theme the various symbols of the season.

Autumn leaves, brilliant red sumac berries and golden hued garden blossoms found place in the arrangement, with mellow light revealing each deft touch of beauty. Miss Hexie Green, Mrs. Joe Reid and Mrs. Brent Jamison assisted in hostess duties, serving, as a final pleasure of the afternoon, a salad plate with chocolate and an accompaniment of mints which were piled high in miniature pumpkin baskets.

The bride-elect wore a becoming frock of channel red georgette with granite of Poan velvet and small buttons.

Mesdames J. T. Hamilton and Joe Reid have issued invitations for a courtesy in the home of the former on November 13, complimentary to the bride-to-be.

Tennant Had To Plant Cotton; Plight Is Shown

One of Reporter's subscribers came in to pay up last week and told a tale like this: He's been farming the past year "on the halves," landlord insisted on all cotton crop; wouldn't even let him raise feed for a cow and a pig; nothing but cotton. Now the cotton is just about all gathered and sold—forced upon the market regardless of price. This farmer is poor but honest. He has lived hard and worked hard. He's paid his store bill and his subscription to the Rockdale Reporter, and he's broke. Sold 4 bales of cotton that day, and had $22 when all his expenses were taken out and nothing to show for his work. Don't own a home, hoof or plow. His boy, almost grown likewise has nothing to show for his year's work except a sense of duty to his dad well performed. Honestly, Reporter hated to take this man's money—tried to give it back to him, but he would not have it; said the Reporter was about all the pleasure his family got out of life. Such are some of the all-cotton system results.—Rockdale Reporter.

Cotton Yield of Nearly 18 Million Bales is Forecast

New York, Nov. 8.—In the face of the latest government crop estimate placing the indicated production to the unprecedented total of nearly 18,000,000 bales, cotton prices held remarkably steady in the New York stock market today.

Before publication of the figures, the staple was selling about a dollar a bale higher than at the end of the last week. Southern selling, which followed the report, cancelled a part of these gains, but it was fairly well absorbed by large buying orders from the trade which had been placed in anticipation of another sharp break. At noon prices ranged from 12.27c for December to 12.62c for March, representing net gains of 5 to 8 points.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 8.—The first effect of the government report on the cotton market here was almost negligible as prices eased off only 7 to 13 points on active near positions and showed little or no changes on distant position. First trades after the report were slightly down from the pre-bureau figures and 5 to 10 points above Saturday's close.

Washington, Nov. 8.—An increase of 464,000 bales is the indicated cotton crop during the last two weeks resulted today in a department of agriculture forecast of a total yield of 17,918,000 bales.

Basing its forecast on conditions and other factors prevailing November 1, the estimate placed the crop at more than one and three quarter million bales than last year.

Census bureau statistics of cotton ginned prior to November 1 placed the quantity at 11,859,028 bales.

There is still some uncertainty with regard to the quantity of cotton that will be left unpicked, the crop reporting board said in commenting on the report. There is some disposition to leave the lower grades in the field.

The indicated production by states included Texas, 5,550,000 bales.

CHIPPS SON SUES
NORRIS FOR $150,000

CLAIMS BAPTIST CLERGYMAN
DEPRIVED HIM OF EDUCATION AND MAINTENANCE

Ft. Worth, Tex., Nov. 8.—Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist Baptist minister, was sued in district court here today for $150,000 damages by Dougherty Elliott Chipps, son of D. E. Chipps, whom the preacher shot and killed last July and for whose death he is to be tried for murder at Austin in January on a charge of venue.

In his petition, the boy, 14, says his father's life was taken without just cause, without legal excuse and without regards to the right of the petition. Mrs. May Chipps, divorced wife of the slain man, joins the boy in the suit as next friend.

Judgment for $50,000 actual and $100,000 exemplary damages is asked.

The suit represents the elder Chipps as having been in good health at the time of his death, earning $1000 a month in the wholesale lumber business and having a life expectancy of 25 years. Chipps was 49 years old. The son bases his pleadings on the claim that he has been deprived of maintenance, education, and support by his father's death.

A Song for Christmas

By James Whitcomb Riley

CHANT me a rhyme of Christmas—
Sing me a jovial song—
And though it is filled with
laughter,
Let it be pure and strong.

Sing of the hearts brimmed over
With the story of the day—
Of the echo of childish voices
That will not die away.

Of the blare of the tasseled bugle,
And the timeless clatter and beat
Of the drums that throbs to muster
Squadrons of scampering feet.

But, O, let your voice fall fainter,
Till, blent with a minor tone,
You temper your song with the beauty
Of the pity Christ hath shown.

And sing one verse for the voiceless;
And yet, ere the song be done,
A voice for the ears that hear not,
And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing
A merry Christmas glee,
Let a low, sweet voice of pathos
Run through the melody.

Christmas, Mistletoe
—the Kissing Custom

Since the Christian era, mistletoe was dedicated to Christmas time. With it went the custom of kissing under the white-berried plant, probably a survival of the saturnalia of pagan rites.

But the Christian elders decided that when the churches were decorated with mistletoe, there was too much kissing going on during the services and too many requests for the wedding service.

So they abolished mistletoe and hung up in its stead holly, to signify the dark monotony and many thorns of matrimony. But the mistletoe stayed in the homes at Christmas, and so did the kissing custom.

It is bad luck for a maiden to stand under the mistletoe and not be kissed. It means that she will not be married that year.
